Where selflessness resides, grace follows.

Jai Shree Krishna!

Mountains, rivers, lands, and the vast open skies — nature continues to whisper timeless truths to us. Recent events, both near and far, have touched our hearts, gently reminding us how fragile and precious each moment truly is. The permanence we often believe in is but an illusion. What we truly hold is now — this very moment — to live meaningfully, to act with kindness, and to give with love.

It is in such times we are reminded that goodness needs no grand gestures. It doesn't wait for perfect moments or special tools. When the heart is willing, even the smallest act — a kind word, a quiet prayer, a warm smile — becomes an offering of grace.

This June issue of अनुसंधान holds a special place in our hearts. It is lovingly dedicated to our Bhaginis of Bhagini Mandir — our daughters who, every day, show us what resilience, innocence, and quiet courage truly mean.

Within those humble walls, a beautiful story unfolds — not in headlines, but in laughter, learning, and lives slowly blossoming after long silences. Each month, when अनुसंधान arrives, Dakshaben — their mentor — opens the pages and says, “Look, that's you.” And their eyes light up.

Some smile shyly, holding the moment close. Others ask with hope, “Will my photo be there next time?”

That question carries a longing we all share — the wish to be seen, to be known, to be loved. So, this time, we said yes.

Yes, this issue is for you — for your silent strength, your small victories, and your growing wings. May these pages bring you joy and whisper softly: You belong. You matter.

Meanwhile, a new academic year has begun, bringing fresh energy into the Ashram. The corridors of Ramakrishna Vidyamandir, our newly opened English medium primary school, now echo with tiny footsteps and bright curiosity. The joyful chaos of learning has begun — and with every child who steps in, we are reminded: the future is already arriving, full of promise.

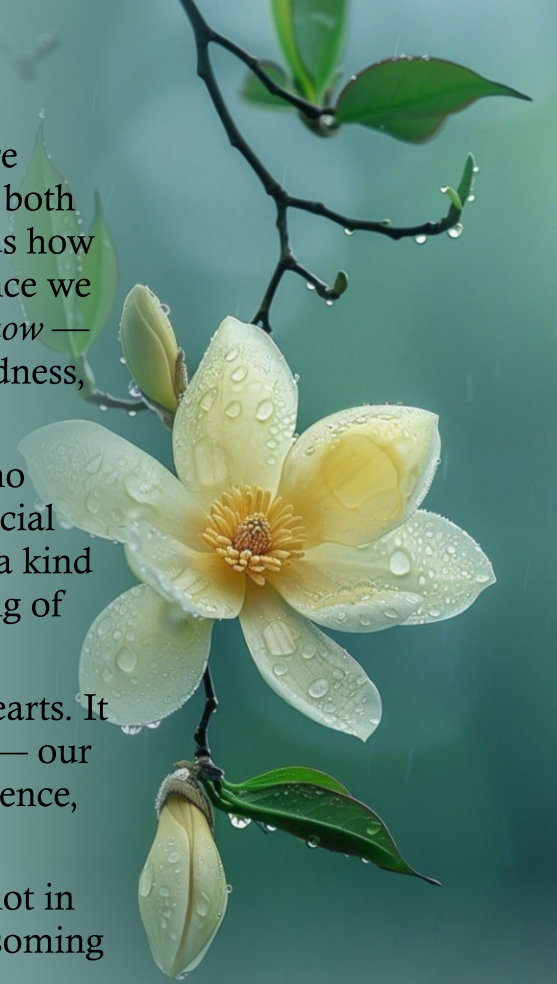

As the first monsoon rains kiss our land, our farmers too prepare their fields. This is the season of sowing — not just crops, but dreams, prayers, and hope. May these rains nurture our soil and our souls alike, softening us, cleansing us, and allowing something beautiful to take root within.

With this issue, we renew our promise — to serve with love, to tell stories that matter, and to honour the quiet heroes who walk among us.

May your monsoon be generous, your heart full, and your days touched by grace.

With warmth and gratitude,

Team अनुसंधान

We are delighted to announce a significant milestone for Kailash Cancer Hospital & Research Centre (KCHRC), Muni Seva Ashram, Goraj — our institution has officially been granted 2 seats for the DrNB (Doctorate of National Board) program in Surgical Oncology, now listed for second counselling.

This prestigious recognition marks a proud step forward in our ongoing mission to advance specialized medical education and training in cancer care. As one of the few comprehensive cancer care hospitals in India committed to both clinical excellence and academic growth, this achievement reflects the trust placed in KCHRC's infrastructure, faculty, and commitment to quality.

By offering the DrNB program in Surgical Oncology, we aim to nurture the next generation of cancer surgeons — compassionate, skilled, and equipped to meet the growing challenges of oncology in India and beyond.

We thank our dedicated team, mentors, and supporters whose efforts have made this possible. Together, we continue to blend Seva with excellence in education, empowering our future healthcare leaders to serve with knowledge, skill, and heart.

Future Nurses, Inspired

At Muni Seva Ashram, every initiative and vertical—be it our hospital or our educational institutions—operates with heartfelt dedication. Over time, the Ashram has become a symbol of selfless service and academic excellence, inspiring many.

Recently, students from the Government Nursing College, Vadodara, visited our Institute of Nursing as part of their academic exploration. The visit offered them valuable insights into the innovative approaches and advancements in nursing education practiced at our institute.

A Day of Giving, A Lifetime of Impact

When communities unite, hope flows

WAGO Private Limited, Vadsala-Varnama, Vadodara, organized a blood donation camp in collaboration with our KCHRC team from Muni Seva Ashram, Goraj. We deeply appreciate WAGO's commitment to community health and thank all the generous donors and our dedicated staff who made the camp a success.

On World Blood Donor Day 2025, students of Muni Seva Ashram's Institute of Nursing showed true compassion by donating blood. Their selfless act stands as a proud reflection of the values we cherish and a beacon of hope for many.

Caring Beyond the Classroom — A Life-Saving Gesture by Future Nurses

Compassion and empathy are the true heartbeats of nursing. Recently, this spirit shone through two of our students—Ashok Raval (GNM, 3rd year) and Harshil Rathwa (B.Sc. Nursing, 3rd year)—who voluntarily donated blood to help thalassemia patients.

Their quiet act of kindness is a powerful reminder of what it truly means to be a nurse. Ashok and Harshil, we are proud of you. Your selfless service reflects the very essence of this noble profession.

After the break,
we return not just to school,
but to a journey of becoming.

School is in session and the hostel is buzzing with life again...

And the Campus Came Alive : After a long summer pause, our world has come alive again — the classrooms, corridors, campus, and hostel echo with laughter, joy, and familiar footsteps. School is back in session, and with it, the heartbeats of our beloved students have returned to fill every corner with warmth and life.

Bhagini Mandir Picnic Diary

Some days sparkle with a kind of magic that words can hardly contain—and this was one such day for our beloved bhaginis. The excitement had been bubbling for days as the girls eagerly prepared for their long-awaited picnic. Their smiles were brighter, their giggles louder, and their hearts lighter.

Getting picnic-ready with a splash of colour and a braid of love!

With the support of their ever-loving caretaker didis and maushis, nails were painted in vibrant shades, dainty hairbands adorned their heads, and neat French chotis were braided with love. The bus ride itself became a festival of cheer, as the girls sang songs and watched the world go by en route to a peaceful weekend home near Dabhasa on the outskirts of Vadodara.

Our Didis' & Maushis' touch made every bhagini shine brighter.

Wheels rolling, Songs soaring!

A warm welcome, The traditional way.

Upon arrival, a warm and traditional welcome awaited. The host, with love pouring from her heart, greeted each bhagini with a kumkum tilak, akshat, and गेंदा फूल garlands—a gesture that made them feel not just special, but celebrated.

Happiness is a plate full of love and flavours.

A delicious home-cooked lunch was served, and the our bhaginis relished every bite. But the real magic began soon after.

Garba beats,
songs, stories, and the spirit of togetherness.

A bouquet of thoughtfully curated activities unfolded—each one crafted to delight while gently nurturing their cognitive and fine motor skills. They shaped joy with clay, played a pompom ball game that sparked laughter, and then came the music—the moment their souls truly soared. Feet tapped, hands clapped, and hearts beat to the rhythm of garba and sanedo. They sang songs, shared their little stories, and wrapped each other in waves of joy and togetherness.

Games
that spark laughter and learning!

As tea time arrived, steaming cups of masala chai brought comfort, followed by a gentle walk into the enchanting सरगवा (moringa) वन . The girls looked up in awe at birds fluttering around their nests, while a gentle, fragrant wind whispered through the trees. And then, as if nature had read their hearts, the sky responded to their innocent calls—a light drizzle descended from the heavens, wrapping the day in soft silver. Their laughter echoed through the trees as they played and swung in the rain—carefree, childlike, divine.

सरगवा वन magic

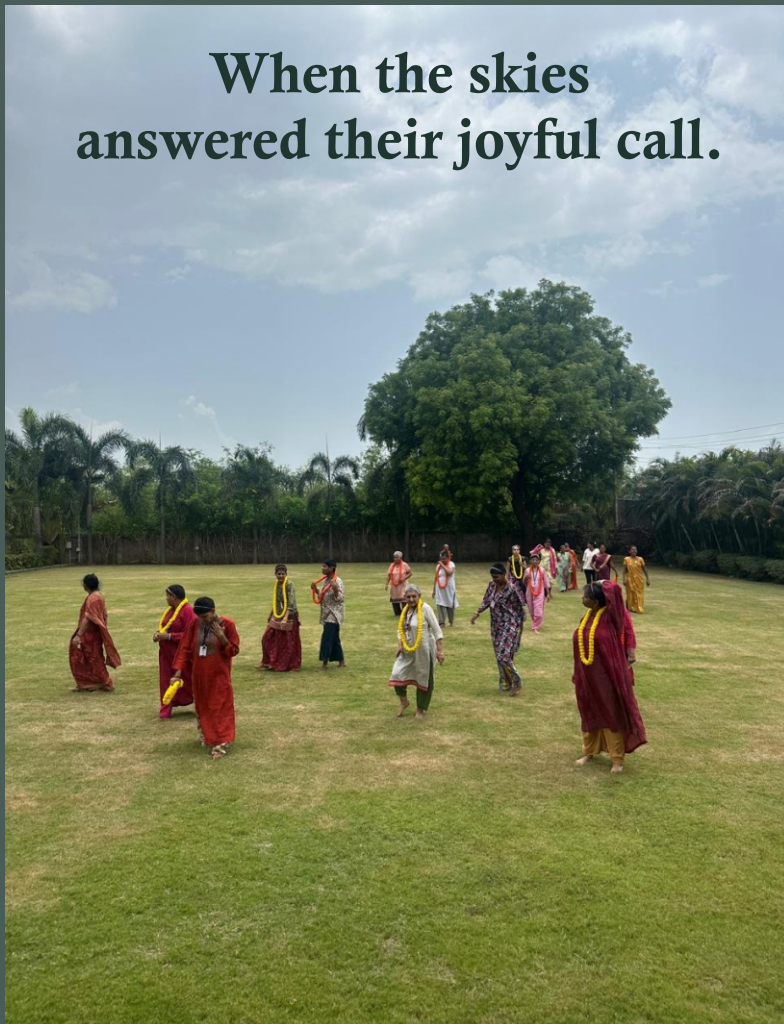

The day ended on a flavourful note with a delightful spread of evening snacks—puris, chaklis, kachoris, wafers, chavanu, and chilled Amul flavoured milk. As they rolled on the grassy lawns and danced with open arms under the vast, smiling sky, we witnessed something priceless—the purest form of happiness.

Snack time smiles, shared with friends.

When the skies answered their joyful call.

A gift of pearls, A gesture of love.

And just when it seemed the day couldn't get any more special, the hosts gifted each bhagini a lovely pearl necklace with delicate buttis—a shining token of love to carry home.

Our heartfelt gratitude to Addlife foundation and Mrs. Nila Shah – Director, Akhil Healthcare, for their generous spirit and for crafting such a beautiful day for our bhaginis.

From Scraps to Smiles

With creativity in their hearts and guidance from Dakshaben, our Bhaginis lovingly transformed fabric scraps into beautiful soft toys. Each piece is not just a toy, but a reflection of their joy, effort, and the quiet magic that happens when hands and hearts work together.

Little Moments, Lasting Joy

What began as playful pompom balls from our Bhaginis' recent outing to Dabhasa Weekend Home has now turned into a delightful hanging décor—each thread woven with love and laughter. With gentle guidance and a nurturing heart, Dakshaben helped our Bhaginis turn simple souvenirs into something truly beautiful.

Threads of Joy, Strokes of Magic

Guided by their mentor, our Bhaginis have poured their hearts into creating beautiful thread paintings and magic artworks. Each piece is more than just art—it's a reflection of their imagination, focus, and the quiet confidence growing within them.

These glimpses celebrate not just creativity, but the love, patience, and encouragement that make it bloom.

Stirring Joy, Sharing Love

In a cozy corner of togetherness, our Bhaginis learned the joy of simple cooking—guided lovingly by their mentor, they made delicious banana milkshake and shared it with smiles all around. The sweetest part? Sipping it together with their beloved pet, June, who added an extra wag of happiness to the moment.

These glimpses are not just of food and fun, but of care, bonding, and the little joys that make big memories.

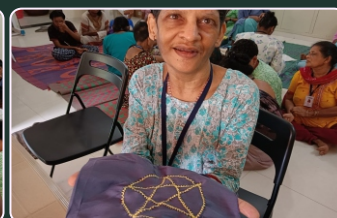

As the monsoon begins to stir, so does the joy in the air.

Our Bhagini's welcomed the season by lovingly cleaning the terrace. With laughter echoing under the cloudy sky, they played traditional games like pagathiyaan and kho-kho—turning the rooftop into a playground of pure, carefree happiness.

Our Bhaginis
are joyfully learning machine embroidery.

At Bhagini Mandir, the age-old tradition of preparing mango pickles and Chhundo comes alive each summer. Under loving guidance, our Bhaginis shred raw mangoes, blend spices, and dry them under the sun — crafting flavors that warm the heart and delight the soul.

These aren't just condiments; they're a celebration of care, community, and connection — served year-round to Ashram residents and guests. If pickling had its own Gharana like dance & music, Muni Seva Ashram's creations would surely have earned a name of honour.

Made without preservatives, and with pure, innocent love — our pickles are soul-fed treasures.

So when you visit next, don't forget to taste the love... one spoonful at a time.

Rain doesn't just fall... ...it nourishes souls too.

There's a sacred rhythm in many Indian homes—when married daughters return to their pihar (पियर), their childhood home, during vacations. It's not just a visit; it's a quiet celebration of love, roots, and memories. A time to pause, to rejuvenate, and to once again become the carefree daughters they once were.

This vacation, the daughters who grew up at Parivar Mandir returned to the Ashram—to meet their beloved Pappa and reconnect with the family that nurtured their souls.

For them, this wasn't just a trip home. It was a tender return to a space that still holds their laughter in its walls, their dreams in its corners, and their childhood in every breeze.

Together, they remembered Pujya Shree Anu Mummy—her boundless love, her quiet strength, and the way she planted seeds of compassion and discipline in each of them. Seeds that have since blossomed into the beautiful, kind-hearted women they are today.

With their children beside them, they visited Shardamandir, Baxipanch School, and Vankuva School Campus—pointing out the classrooms where they once studied, their old hostels, the farms, the gaushala... and the serene Dev river, where they used to swim freely (back then, there were no crocodiles!). Every corner carried a memory; every step was steeped in nostalgia.

And in every photo, there is everything:

- ♥ The calm joy in their eyes as they sit beside their Pappa...
- ♥ The unspoken pride in his eyes as he sees his daughters—strong, smiling, fulfilled...
- ♥ A home that continues to embrace them, no matter how far life has taken them.

What more could one ask for?

Sometimes, happiness is simply this—a circle completed, a heart full, a family together again.

With hearts full of joy and hope, a warm welcome ceremony was held at Ramkrushn Vidhyamandir, English Medium Primary School, lovingly nurtured by our Muni Seva Ashram. The occasion marked a beautiful milestone as our youngest learners stepped into the tender world of formal education — where dreams take root and the journey of lifelong learning begins.

With bright eyes, innocent smiles, and eager hearts, these little ones entered their classrooms — ready to explore, grow, and blossom. They were welcomed with warmth, affection, and heartfelt blessings from teachers and staff alike.

As their educational journey begins, we extend our sincerest blessings to each child.

May their path be filled with curiosity, courage, kindness, and wisdom.

May they grow in good health, strong values, and the nurturing light of knowledge.

Together, let us walk alongside them — shaping not just minds, but beautiful lives.

A Gentle Appeal – Supporting Our Students' Dreams

With the recent results of Class 12 and various entrance exams, many of our bright students are on the verge of a new journey. They are securing admissions in reputed colleges / universities across different cities—where their tuition fees will thankfully be covered.

However, for many of them, the challenge lies in arranging for lodging and boarding, which is not covered. Among these are a few deserving students who have earned seats in medical and engineering colleges—a proud moment for them, and for all of us.

To help them take this next step with confidence, we humbly invite you to consider extending your support. Even a small contribution can go a long way in easing their burden and bringing their dreams closer to reality.

If you are willing to help or would like more information, please contact our EMRS Principal, Yogesh Singh, on +91 96627 84903.

Together, let's make sure that no child's journey stops for want of support.

In the rhythm of life, we dance between moments of joy and waves of struggle. Opportunities greet us at every corner, yet so do challenges that test our resilience. Amidst this ever-turning wheel of experiences, 'संतुलन' emerges as a gentle guiding light—a soulful attempt to find harmony between our worldly duties and our inner calling.

This one-of-a-kind workshop is not just a program—it is a sanctuary for the weary heart and a compass for the searching soul. Designed to equip individuals with emotional strength and spiritual clarity, Santoolan brings hope in times often overwhelmed by distractions, expectations, and emotional upheaval.

From June 1st to 7th, Muni Seva Ashram was honored to host this transformative, week-long residential retreat organized by Sampoorna Jeevan, a spiritual organization based in Vadodara. The serene environment of the Ashram became home to 27 seekers from various corners of Gujarat and Mumbai.

Each day began with calming Yogasan and Pranayam, awakening not just the body, but also the spirit. Through creatively structured role-playing workshops, participants explored the depths of their own being—learning how to cultivate 'Stithpragnyata', the power of calm, wise, and balanced thinking. They understood that inner balance is not achieved in one grand leap, but nurtured gently, one mindful step at a time.

By the end of the retreat, every participant carried home more than just memories. They left recharged—with renewed emotional awareness, spiritual insight, and a quiet strength to meet life's ups and downs with grace.

संतुलन is more than a workshop—it is a heartfelt invitation to pause, reflect, and realign. A reminder that when we center ourselves within, we find the strength to navigate the world outside.

Recently, Ms. Noopur Desai, the President (2025–26) of Rotary Club of Bombay Pier (RCBP), who is also closely associated with the Govardhan Skill Center—located about 100 km from Mumbai—visited Muni Seva Ashram along with the Head of Programs and the Head of Administration.

The two senior representatives stayed overnight at the Ashram and held detailed discussions with Shri Hemantbhai, In-charge of our Vocational Training Centre (VTC). Following an in-depth tour and interactions, they submitted a comprehensive visit report to RCBP.

Here are the key highlights from their report:

- Daily Routine: Morning prayers are followed by student-led Value Education sessions, where students present on moral topics with teacher guidance and post-session reflections.
- Evening Activities: Structured schedule includes Shramdaan (thrice a week), devotional kirtans, extra classes, skill training, and weekly Bhagavad Gita sessions.
- Discipline Policy: Clear protocols—rule violations lead to temporary dismissal, with rejoining only after public reflection and apology.
- Zero Mobile Usage: Students do not keep phones; communication is routed through guardians—ensuring focus and discipline.
- Teacher Peer Reviews: Conducted twice a year via Google Forms to support growth and teaching quality.
- Mobilization Strategy: CSR-supported 2-month outreach programs in rural/urban areas help funnel candidates into the 6-month residential course.
- Uniformity & Inclusion: All students wear CSR-sponsored T-shirts to promote unity and remove social disparity.
- Staff Accommodation: Family quarters (1BHK) and dormitories for single staff are thoughtfully provided.
- Awareness Building: Video interviews with local influencers are broadcast on campus to inform and engage visitors.
- Cultural Values: Students greet all guests with “Jay Shri Krishna,” fostering a culture of respect.
- Alumni as Staff: Many current staff members are former students—reflecting strong institutional bonds.

Their report commended the Ashram's integrated approach to education, discipline, and spiritual growth—offering a model worth emulating.

At Muni Seva Ashram, we are proud to pilot a groundbreaking initiative that aligns perfectly with our values of sustainability, innovation, and service. A brand-new 20-ton hybrid cold storage unit—sent by Mid West, Hyderabad—is being tested on our campus. What makes it remarkable? It runs on solar steam and, when sunlight isn't available, during cloudy conditions or at night—the system seamlessly transitions to biomass energy, ensuring uninterrupted operation in an entirely off-grid setting. Not only is it entirely compressor-free, but it also uses a cutting-edge adsorption chiller technology to bring temperatures down to -5°C , using nothing but heat!

This 18 ft x 12 ft cold storage unit is being installed to support the Atithi Mandir kitchen, which prepares wholesome meals every day for over 2,000 residents, volunteers, and guests. It will enable safer, longer storage of perishables like milk and vegetables, significantly reducing food waste and preserving nutritional value.

But the impact doesn't stop there. This initiative holds immense promise for local farmers, many of whom currently struggle to sell their perishable produce at fair prices due to the lack of proper storage. With this technology, we move one step closer to empowering them, reducing losses, and promoting dignity in agriculture.

When solar energy is unavailable, the system runs efficiently on a range of locally available biomass waste materials—including poultry litter, sugarcane bagasse, spent mushroom substrate, crop husks, fruit and nut shells, spent coffee grounds, brewery and winery residues, and shredded municipal dry waste—transforming everyday waste into a clean, renewable source of thermal energy.

This is more than just a machine—it's a beacon of hope, proving that clean energy and compassionate living can go hand in hand.
